Pastor's Letter

Mission Sunday

This Sunday is World Mission Sunday and is the major support of the Church in the poorest countries of the world. I was the Director of the Propagation of the Faith/ Mission Office for the Archdiocese of Los Angeles for 16 years and I had the opportunity to visit many of the mission territories of the world. Fr. Thaddeus, grew up in Nigeria so we both know the great need of the Church and the impact of World Mission Sunday for the work of evangelization and the development of the Church. Envelopes are in the pews this weekend for your generous support of this vital outreach of the Church. (See page 2 for more details)

Harvest Festival

The Harvest Festival is our major fund-raiser for the support of our school. Under the direction of our principal, Mrs. Noreen Maricich, St. James School offers an outstanding education for our youth enabling them to grow in their faith and excel in high school and college. Your support of the School and Festival makes a real difference for our children, giving them a true advantage for life. (See page 3 for more details)

All Souls Mass

On Tuesday, November 2nd we will have a special Mass at 7 pm to pray for all our family and friends who have died. We will give special honor to those who have been buried from St. James during the last year. It is a wonderful opportunity for all of us to gather in prayer for our loved ones and to ask God's healing grace for our lives. (See page 3 for more information.)

Holy Water Font

We have spent 19 months now with no Holy Water in the church. The practice of blessing ourselves with Holy Water as we enter and leave the church helps open our heart to God's love for us and strengthens us to carry that love out to the world. We now have touchless Holy Water dispensers at both entrances of the church. Simply place your hand close under the 'font' and a small amount of Holy Water will be dispensed for you

Blessings,

Msgr. Mike and Fr. Thaddeus

World Mission Sunday— October 24

Today is World Mission Sunday. We celebrate this day by remembering the revitalizing mission at the heart of our Christian faith – to bring the Gospel to all!

The collection today for the Society for the Propagation of the Faith ensures the work and service of the Mission Church, as it supports priests, religious and lay leaders who offer the Lord's mercy and concrete help to the most vulnerable communities in the Pope's missions.

Thank you for your generosity.

Holy Water

Question:

What is holy water and how do I explain the reason that it is placed at the entrances of churches to my non-Catholic friends?

Answer:

Holy water is a sacramental, a reminder of the life of the Church expressed and celebrated through the sacraments. God's grace is mediated through word and gesture (the outward signs). This comes to us through Jesus (instituted by Christ) as he entrusts to the Church his saving mission (to give grace). In turn the Church, through the sacraments, shares that grace and mission with us.

On Ash Wednesday, we receive ashes on our foreheads to remind us of our origins, humbly created from the dust. But by blessing ourselves with holy water, we are reminded of our destiny! We are baptized sons and daughters of God. This is also a call to conversion, to live more fully our baptismal call to live as disciples of Jesus.

We see holy water whenever we renew our baptismal promises. This will occur during the Easter liturgy as well, reminding us that we are indeed on a journey of faith and renewed in Christ.

Blessing ourselves with holy water reminds us that we are baptized into a community faith, and always in need of turning from sin and toward God.

Holy water is a visible sign of our baptism!

Have a spooky and safe Halloween

With Halloween right around the corner, here are a few tips to keep your holiday safe and fun!

Before they go trick-or-treating, talk with your children about safety and set the ground rules. Young children should always trick or treat with an adult. Join up with friends or family and stick to neighborhoods you know, with houses that are lit and ready for trick or treaters. Stay on sidewalks when possible, and if children have a hard time walking between houses, make a game of it — take big steps, or march from house to house. For more information, please visit:

When we see God with true sincerity of heart and God passes us along our way, it is only then that we will be able to cry out, "Jesus, son of David, have pity on me!"

We have to truly want to be healed by, and in union with, God in order for us to reach out to him. If God is only an abstract idea, theory, or someone found in the pages of a book, there is no motivation for a relationship and no desire to seek him. God needs to be real in order for faith to be real. It's all about the journey.

St. Augustine reminds us that

"to fall in love with God is the greatest romance; to seek Him the greatest adventure; to find Him the greatest human achievement."

We strive after many things and mercy is not always one of them. We think that we can find fulfillment and healing in other things only to discover that we are still short and empty.

From the moment human beings were created, God has been calling us and seeking us. He has been walking right beside the human story from the minute He first breathed life into the first human soul.

Are we able to recognize God as He walks with us?

At some point we have to realize that there is only one way to satisfy the deepest longings of the human heart and that is in relationship with our Creator.

We are called to this. However, we make the huge error of thinking that what we are hearing is coming from somewhere else. We become confused. Every human being would certainly profit with wisdom if they realized Who calls them and to Whom they belong.

Then and only then will we realize that it is only our Divine Master who can give us true vision and heal us.

Once we recognize and reach out for the merciful presence of our loving Maker, we will be able to see with our soul, understanding the true nature and depth of all things.

God's mercy is always available.

It doesn't matter how far we have strayed or how blind we become, God patiently waits to console us, guide us and heal us.

All we need to do is desire Him. Once we reach out, we also realize that there is no greater love to be found than God's, no human adventure that comes even close to the thrill of a spiritual search, and no human achievement even remotely as satisfying as union with Him.

This is where we belong.

This is salvation.

Q: While quietly awaiting confession, the Saturday afternoon sun streamed brightly into the sanctuary. Amid a preparatory examination of conscience, reflected colors of stained glass served to further illuminate the images of the faithful departed posted in honored memoriam.

Reflected streaming light was followed by reflective thoughts, perhaps thoughts of the upcoming solemnity of All Saints Day and All Souls Day. The faces of those pictured are evocative, sometimes tearfully, of lives lived, and lives passing. Yet also palpably present among those faces is sustaining, hopeful faith. We may think about scripture:

"For surely I know the plans I have for you, says the Lord, plans for your welfare and not your harm, to give you a future with hope."

How else does the Church place and validate All Saints Day and All Souls Day as celebrations of hope?

A: The solemnity of All Saints Day was established by the Church long before All Souls Day. The Church recognizes the lives and actions of the saints virtually daily, year-round. As exemplars of faith the Reverend Alban Butler describes the saints as being, "...on the road to perfection." The Catechism of the Catholic Church cites Paragraph 1055: "By virtue of the communion of saints the Church commends the dead to God's mercy and offers her prayers, especially the holy sacrifice of the Eucharist on their behalf."

Addressing the nature of the realm of those who have gone to their reward, the Catechism includes Paragraph 1054:

"Those who die in God's grace and friendship imperfectly purified, although they are assured of their eternal salvation, undergo a purification after death, so as to achieve the holiness necessary to enter the joy of God."

The always insightful Pope Benedict XVI reflected in 2011: "As human beings, we have a natural fear of death and we rebel against its apparent finality. Faith teaches us that the fear of death is lightened by a great hope, the hope of eternity, which gives our lives their fullest meaning. The God who is love offers us the promise of eternal life through the death and resurrection of His Son." Therefore:

"...in Christ, death no longer appears as an abyss of emptiness, but rather a path to life which will never end."

The Good News of the Gospel of John, Chapter 14, is present and reflected in the spirit of those faces along the Church walls and within the searching hearts of all the faithful:

"Do not let your hearts be troubled. You have faith in God, have faith also in me. In my Father's house there are many dwelling places. If there were not, would I have told you that I am going to prepare a place for you? For all souls: "...to give you a future with hope."

The hope of eternity...
