EVANGELIUM VITAE— St. John Paul II

"What is man that you are mindful of him, and the son of man that you care for him?", the Psalmist wonders (Ps 8:4). Compared to the immensity of the universe, man is very small, and yet this very contrast reveals his greatness:

"You have made him little less than a god, and crown him with glory and honor" (Ps. 8:5).

The glory of God shines on the face of man. In man the Creator finds his rest, as Saint Ambrose comments with a sense of awe:

"The sixth day is finished and the creation of the world ends with the formation of that masterpiece which is man, who exercises dominion over all living creatures and is as it were the crown of the universe and the supreme beauty of every created being. Truly we should maintain a reverential silence, since the Lord rested from every work he had undertaken in the world. He rested then in the depths of man, he rested in man's mind and in his thought; after all, he had created man endowed with reason, capable of imitating him, of emulating his virtue, of hungering for heavenly graces.

In these his gifts God reposes, who has said: "Upon whom shall I rest, if not upon the one who is humble, contrite in spirit and trembles at my word?" (Is 66:1-2). I thank the Lord our God who has created so wonderful a work in which to take his rest".

36. Unfortunately, God's marvelous plan was marred by the appearance of sin in history. Through sin, man rebels against his Creator and ends up by worshipping creatures:

"They exchanged the truth about God for a lie and worshipped and served the creature rather than the Creator" (Rom 1:25).

As a result man not only deforms the image of God in his own person, but is tempted to offences against it in others as well, replacing relationships of communion by attitudes of distrust, indifference, hostility and even murderous hatred. When God is not acknowledged as God, the profound meaning of man is betrayed and communion between people is compromised.

In the life of man, God's image shines forth anew and is again revealed in all its fullness at the coming of the Son of God in human flesh. "Christ is the image of the invisible God" (Col 1:15), he "reflects the glory of God and bears the very stamp of his nature" (Heb. 1:3). He is the perfect image of the Father.

The plan of life given to the first Adam finds at last its fulfilment in Christ. Whereas the disobedience of Adam had ruined and marred God's plan for human life and introduced death into the world, the redemptive obedience of Christ is the source of grace poured out upon the human race, opening wide to everyone the gates of the kingdom of life (cf. Rom 5:12-21).

As the Apostle Paul states: "The first man Adam became a living being; the last Adam became a life-giving spirit" (1 Cor. 15:45).

All who commit themselves to following Christ are given the fullness of life: the divine image is restored, renewed and brought to perfection in them. God's plan for human beings is this, that they should "be conformed to the image of his Son" (Rom 8:29). Only thus, in the splendor of this image, can man be freed from the slavery of idolatry, rebuild lost fellowship and rediscover his true identity.

Whoever lives and believes in me shall never die" (Jn 11:26): the gift of eternal life

37. The life which the Son of God came to give to human beings cannot be reduced to mere existence in time. The life which was always "in him" and which is the "light of men" (Jn. 1:4) consists in being begotten of God and sharing in the fullness of his love: "To all who received him, who believed in his name, he gave power to become children of God; who were born, not of blood nor of the will of the flesh nor of the will of man, but of God" (Jn. 1:12-13).

Sometimes Jesus refers to this life which he came to give simply as "life", and he presents being born of God as a necessary condition if man is to attain the end for which God has created him: "Unless one is born anew, he cannot see the kingdom of God" (Jn. 3:3). To give this life is the real object of Jesus' mission: he is the one who "comes down from heaven, and gives life to the world" (Jn. 6:33). Thus can he truly say: "He who follows me ... will have the light of life" (Jn. 8:12).

At other times, Jesus speaks of "eternal life". Here the adjective does more than merely evoke a perspective which is beyond time. The life which Jesus promises and gives is "eternal" because it is a full participation in the life of the "Eternal One".

Whoever believes in Jesus and enters into communion with him has eternal life (cf. Jn. 3:15; 6:40) because he hears from Jesus the only words which reveal and communicate to his existence the fullness of life. These are the "words of eternal life" which Peter acknowledges in his confession of faith:

"Lord, to whom shall we go? You have the words of eternal life; and we have believed, and have come to know, that you are the Holy One of God" (Jn. 6:68-69).

Jesus himself, addressing the Father in the great priestly prayer, declares what eternal life consists in: "This is eternal life, that they may know you the only true God, and Jesus Christ whom you have sent" (Jn. 17:3). To know God and his Son is to accept the mystery of the loving communion of the Father, the Son and the Holy Spirit into one's own life, which even now is open to eternal life because it shares in the life of God.

38. Eternal life is therefore the life of God himself and at the same time the life of the children of God. As they ponder this unexpected and inexpressible truth which comes to us from God in Christ, believers cannot fail to be filled with ever new wonder and unbounded gratitude.

They can say in the words of the Apostle John: "See what love the Father has given us, that we should be called children of God; and so we are. ...

Beloved, we are God's children now; it does not yet appear what we shall be, but we know that when he appears we shall be like him, for we shall see him as he is" (1 Jn 3:1-2).

Here the Christian truth about life becomes most sublime. The dignity of this life is linked not only to its beginning, to the fact that it comes from God, but also to its final end, to its destiny of fellowship with God in knowledge and love of him. In the light of this truth Saint Irenaeus qualifies and completes his praise of man: "the glory of God" is indeed, "man, living man", but "the life of man consists in the vision of God".

Immediate consequences arise from this for human life in its earthly state, in which, for that matter, eternal life already springs forth and begins to grow. Although man instinctively loves life because it is a good, this love will find further inspiration and strength, and new breadth and depth, in the divine dimensions of this good.

Similarly, the love which every human being has for life cannot be reduced simply to a desire to have sufficient space for self-expression and for entering into relationships with others; rather, it develops in a joyous awareness that life can become the "place" where God manifests himself, where we meet him and enter into communion with him. The life which Jesus gives in no way lessens the value of our existence in time; it takes it and directs it to its final destiny: "I am the resurrection and the life ... whoever lives and believes in me shall never die" (Jn. 11:25-26).

Maybe you grew up Catholic.

Maybe you think of yourself as Catholic.
Maybe you haven't been to church in awhile.
Or you are worried that you won't be welcomed here.

And maybe it feels awkward and scary
to take that first step.

Questions. Doubts. Yearning.
But not sure for what.

We get it.
We've been there.
Now we are here.

Maybe God is calling you, too.
Just as you are.

Welcome home.

St. Michael Prayer

St. Michael the Archangel, defend us in battle;
be our protection against the wickedness
and snares of the devil.

May God rebuke him, we humbly pray;
and do thou, O prince of the heavenly host,
by the power of God,
cast into hell Satan and all the evil spirits who prowl throughout the world seeking the ruin of souls. Amen.

Feed the Needy Ministry

We thank you for all your donations! We continue this year of providing meals on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays. Because of your generosity, we have continued to feed our homeless community throughout the year.

Our work continues and we once again ask for your assistance to ensure that we maintain the items needed for our homeless community members. We always need the following items:

hamburger buns	cheese sticks
fruit	(oranges, bananas & grapes)
chips	granola bars
lunch meat & cheese	8 oz. water and juices

In addition to the food items we are in need of toiletries and socks. Due to the pandemic and limited storage space we are unable to accept used clothing. Again we thank you in advance for your generosity in allowing us to keep our homeless community fed and healthy. If you have any questions regarding our ministry I can be reached at 310.488.9480.

Teen Night

Thursday, April 27th

We are incredibly excited for our 3 teens who will be receiving First Communion this weekend & next: Ryan B., Ruby D., and Garrett M.!

Our love & excitement also extends to the many children within our Religious Education program & St. James School who will also be receiving First Communion during our Masses!

We continue witnessing the Holy Spirit move within our youth as our teens receive the Sacrament of Confirmation on Friday, May 19th with Archbishop Jose Gomez presiding. We will welcome 75 teens, 6 adults & a few other teens from local parishes as fully initiated members of the Catholic Church.

What a joyful few weeks within our parish during this season of Easter! Please continue keeping the youth of our church in your prayers.

SAINT JAMES YOUTH MINISTRY

Together we prevent abuse and protect children & young people

National Child Abuse Prevention Month (April) is a good time to review the ways in which we work together as a community of faith to prevent abuse and protect children and young people.

The Archdiocese of Los Angeles stands resolute in its commitment to report allegations of sexual misconduct to law enforcement, support victim-survivors and protect minors and the vulnerable.

An updated flyer which summarizes the efforts of the Archdiocese to ensure that our parishes, schools and ministries are safe places for children and young people is available at :

Catholic Q&A Topic: Now, Go In Peace...

Easter. At this summit of the liturgical year we rejoice across echoes of a 15th Century Easter Hymn from Germany:

"Jesus is risen, let us sing!
Praise to the ever living King!
Alleluia, Alleluia, Alleluia, Alleluia!"

From the Lenten Season, throughout Holy Week, Easter and now beyond, we experience many holy moments.

Q: What does the Church and spiritual readings say about these holy moments?

A: The Catechism of the Catholic Church, in its section called The Celebration of the Christian Mystery, instructs about the memorial of the Lord's Passion and Resurrection as part of a Holy Sacrifice, presenting a discussion about the sacrament of the Eucharistic Celebration, a celebration which the catechism calls, "the source and summit of the Christian life."

With regard to that active, authentic Christian life, there is the blessing at the end of Mass, encouraging the faithful to go in peace, glorifying God; loving and serving God by service and love for others, a service and love exemplified in the events of the Easter Season and the elements of the Eucharistic Celebration. This is our faith, this our calling.

The Catechism, in Paragraph 1332:

"Holy Mass (Missa), because the liturgy in which the mystery of salvation is accomplished concludes with the sending forth (missio) of the faithful, so that they may fulfill God's will in their daily lives."

Matthew Kelly, in his book Holy Moments, (a book gifted to St. James parishioners by Monsignor Mike), ponders this notion of a faith that, true to the essence of the realm of the risen Christ, is consistently and existentially applied in daily life. Kelly writes:

"So, what am I going to do? I will press on. I'm going to keep sowing Holy Moments in my own imperfect way, everywhere I go, with every person I meet, every chance I get, reminding myself daily that the Messiah is indeed among us!"

Holy moments. We press on, finding God's will in our daily lives; every chance we get.

Alleluia and praise to the ever living King.

It's normal to grieve a pregnancy loss, including the loss of a child by abortion.

It can form a hole in one's heart, a hole so deep that sometimes it seems nothing can fill the emptiness. You are not alone... hopeafterabortion.com/

I always feel a little sad when someone begins to speak to me with the words, "Father, I know you're so busy, but ..." It happens a lot. And I get it. He or she is trying to be respectful of my time. But it saddens me because a priest makes Jesus present to people in a special way, and Jesus always has time for us. Don't we all feel at times that God just doesn't have time for us?

Nonsense. Just look at the stunning "Road to Emmaus" story we hear this week. It's the day Jesus rose from the dead. And the Risen One appears in disguise to two disciples. He walks with them, chats with them, and eventually eats with them. It could have been hours he spends with them — two unnamed persons — in the middle of nowhere. On the day he rose from the dead!

My friends, please take this to heart: The Risen Jesus is not too busy to spend time with you! He doesn't have "better things to do." You and I are members of this crucified and risen Body. He therefore has all the time in the world to be with us. So, I challenge you this week to approach him confidently in prayer and conversation. After all, being with you and me is the reason he rose from the dead.

— Father John Muir
